VARIETIES AND ERRORS

It is not uncommon in all types of cards to find varieties which differ in some manner from the normal. It is usually difficult, however, to determine the exact origin of such things without knowing a great deal about the printing process used and the history of the piece. Without being technical, a few notes may serve to show the possible origins and assist in more complete identification.

As everyone familiar with printing knows, it is seldom possible to start the presses and immediately turn out the perfect finished article. Trials and adjustments are the usual order, and the floor around the press soon is deeply covered with printing monstrosities of every description. This is PRINTERS WASTE and as the name implies, is only intended to be sold as waste paper. Even after presses are running smoothly, a nut may loosen or an ink line clog and we have cards with a color missing or some other defect. This is more Printers Waste, but a little of it may be overlooked and in some way reach the public.

But before printing starts, we have PROOFS. These are pulled at every stage, and in the case of colored pictures, there are plate proofs for each color used in the finished picture. There are proofs of each color and combinations of two or more colors as may be necessary to perfect the job. Proofs may be kept on file by the engraver and copies sent to the issuer for approval or changes. They are not intended to reach the public but often years later when files are cleaned they come to light and reach the hands of collectors. Then, too, someone engaged in the work may want to keep a personal souvenir of the job or may have a friend who saves such pictures and so, sooner or later, more proofs and waste reach collectors. Proof sheets may show any number of designs. Small 19th tobaccoos were usually printed 12 to 15 per sheet, standard recent gums 12 or 24 per sheet, playing cards 54 per sheet. If backs are printed and the sheets cut into individual designs on a cutter they may be difficult to distinguish from the normal card.

ERRORS are somewhat different. These are mistakes which go undetected through part or all of the process. They may be hard to identify unless they are corrected and collectors can thus show both the error and the corrected card. Common errors are the transposed titles, wrong backs, misspelled words, and omitted inscriptions.

Possibly after considerable printing of a series, some design is found unsatisfactory. It may be changed or a completely new design substituted. Maybe an extra design or two was made from the start, with the idea of discarding to the desired quantity - and then the discarding was overlooked. So, in one way or other we may find, for instance, 51 or 52 cards in what was intended as a 50 card series.

The quantity printed may not be sufficient and more are ordered. Here there may be trouble in accurately matching the colors first used. Thus we get varieties of color shade. Such varieties, however, may more likely be due to exposure of the card to sunlight at some time during its existence. Very often only one color is affected. Cases of various sorts will also affect colors greatly.

CUTOUTS can usually be easily identified if from the usual sources, but they also be made by cutting up small display cards and other miscellaneous advertising matter about which nothing is known.

REPRINTS are usually considered as prints made from the original

P. M. NAGLE

Although Mr. Nagle passed away on Aug. 5th, we did not hear of it in time to mention in our last issue. Mr. Nagle was one of our few remaining old time collectors who collected the early cards at the time they were issued. We were always pleased by his occasional letters giving recollections and data on the early days, and will miss this valuable source of information. There are not many such left, who are able and willing to share their knowledge for the benefit of all. We extend sincere sympathy to Mrs. Nagle and the family.

plates but at some time after the cards are obsolete. Thus many early A&G plates were used around 1912 for early candy cards. This was, of course, a reprint of the picture only and not a copy of the entire card. The inscriptions were not used. It is not likely that the original plates now exist for any but possibly the very latest card issues and probably they, too, have been scrapped during the war time shortage of metals and so modern reprints can be eliminated as possibilities.

If new plates are made and exact copies of originals attempted, we have imitations, facsimiles, counterfeits, and other bogus productions. These can usually be detected by careful examination, but so far nothing has occurred in this line as far as known. The high cost of such work, plus risk of detection, makes it a hazardous undertaking.

The big wonder is that more of these varieties and errors are not found, especially in the high speed, mass production of 20th century cards. Of those known, some few may have slipped through inspections and been issued in the normal manner but most of them probably come from old files and through employees who worked on their production. It is a credit to these people that so few have survived in that way.

There is no standard valuation for these items. Proof sheets of early series usually sell at $2. to $5. each. Errors depend on popularity and seldom are worth more than double the normal value. Cutouts with a few exceptions, have no value. The value is seldom much above normal for such things as one color omitted, color changes, titles omitted, shade varieties, double printed backs, changes in positions of title, cutting errors, etc.etc. collectors usually save these things as interesting curiosities, but not as valuable pieces. The Catalog mentions most of the major errors known and some of the other varieties, but any large collection will contain many others not recorded, and others are being found all the time.

IN CHICAGO

Early in October we found time for a short trip to Chicago and were glad to meet several of our card friends with whom we have corresponded for years. Due to hotel accommodations being unavailable, we could stay only three nights but managed to make several calls.

At HOBBIES we missed seeing the publisher but had a pleasant visit with Miss Reeder, the editor, who allowed us to inspect the card room in the Museum. This is the room which Mr. Lightner had panelled and decorated with cards of all kinds. It is a most interesting method of display although hardly suited to collectors. It has both insert and advertising cards as well as cigar bands and other novelties.

We could hardly miss Mr. Donald F. Abel, whose office is on "the world's busiest corner" of State and Madison, and we had a most pleasant visit with him from which, we fear, we benefited more than he.

In Evanston, we inspected the collection of the late Mr. B.K. Edwards which, as we have previously noted, is being held for his son, Ben Jr., a fine lad just now entering Northwestern. We certainly appreciated the kindness of Mrs. Edwards in allowing us to go through the many volumes and make notes on some of the lesser known items.

We found Mr. H. Bruce Spencer convalescing rapidly under the excellent care of Mrs. Spencer. By now he will be back in his office again and busy with the cares of playing card collectors. We enjoyed a peek into that $500. box of rarities and a look at one of the volumes of the great Rosing collection which Mr. Spencer obtained. It was a visit to remember, including those glasses of iced ginger ale Mrs. Spencer served.

From the Spencers it was a short trip to the Hobby Bazaar and a visit with the Petersons who make it famous. We had expected to see a business stock of playing cards but on finding a huge pile of cabinets we asked what was in them and was told "That's the collection". We didn't examine them all, but believe us, its some collection. We bought a few things and right there got into the only argument of the trip. Our idea of the value was just double that of Mrs. Peterson. Neither would budge, But finally, with some connivance from Mr. Peterson, the lady won the day, but as some famous man said "I'll be back".

We had a phone call with Ray Cooper, an old Bulletin reader since No.1, but were not able to contact several other Bulletin subscribers in the Chicago area. Lack of time was the main reason, augmented by a bus strike which made some sections of the city difficult to reach.

While away, we missed a visit from Mr. and Mrs. VanDuzer of Warwick, N.Y. who happened to come on the only weekend of the year on which we were not at home. Sorry, but try again sometime, please.

TIMELY NOTES

MERRY CHRISTMAS. At this time we extend Greetings for the Holiday season and Best Wishes for the New Year. We know that this is a cheap way of doing it, but time rather than cost is the factor which makes individual notes impossible. During the past months we have been unable to answer all the mail we have received and we know that several correspondents must be offended, but we are doing the best we can and hope to catch up somewhat by the end of the year.

INSERTS. Last issue we mentioned the possibility of cigarette cards appearing in England as soon as paper is available. Much the same situation prevails in this country according to a letter received recently from a high executive of one of our leading tobacco manufacturers. He writes that there is no present activity in regards to cards and "until the paper situation improves considerably I doubt if any tobacco company dares think about inserts". We may thus infer that something MAY be done, if and when paper stocks become sufficient.

CATALOG NOTES

We have checked our remaining Catalogs and found a few more of the defects mentioned in the last issue. This is a collating error in which pages 57-64 are omitted and pages 41-48 duplicated in their place. As about 350 catalogs were mailed before the error was noticed, it is possible that someone got one of these bad ones, so check your Catalog, please, and let us know if this, or any other defects, are found.

Here are a few new set listings, with the numbers in each case to follow the previous number which is in the Catalog:

Appendix 2- Dr. Kurzrok reports finding the Roumania card, so this paragraph should be changed to 10 varieties by adding Roumania with value of $2.50. Very rarely, cards are found with 56 title backlists which include Roumania and Corea, but the set will still be considered complete at 48 as shown on practically all cards. Appendix 4- Series 2 error: Louis James with Series I back, value .25.

Checklist Additions:

I75-#27 Russia. List I84-Princeton: #26 Brown, #27 Holly, #28 Lea.

WHO HAS MCINNIS? The checklist of T207, the brown bkgd baseballs, lists McInnis of Phila Americans. We had thought that one was in the Edwards collection as we have a hazy recollection that Mr. Edwards was the one who reported it for listing, but examination of his collection shows that he, too, lacks it. Does it exist, or is 200 complete without it? Some irregularities are known in this series, such as wrong backs, and some study should be given it to clarify this popular series.

WILL SWAP 19th and 20th Century Cards and Albums.

Also gum and candy, coffee and soda, and old adv. cards.

CHARLES R. BRAY, EAST BANGOR, PENNA.

WHERE TO. Newcomers and a few others should note that the Mail Sales and the Bulletin are entirely separate - the former handled by Mr. Bray and the latter by Mr. Burdick - and communications regarding each should be rightly addressed to avoid delays. Both also urge earlier submittance of material-sale lots to East Bangor & advertising to Syracuse. Both are trying to accomodate everyone, but it is not always possible. NEWSBOY. Most all are familiar with the Cabinet photos of actresses with "Newsboy" inscribed at the lower left. We have had different stories of their origin but could not connect them with Newsboy Plug Tobacco. However, Mr. Bray shows us a small coupon which says "You can get from any dealer, free, a beautiful full size cabinet photograph with each purchase of a 10-cent piece of Newsboy Plug Tobacco". The back side says there are photographs of 500 beautiful women and prominent men in this collection. They are now listed as #W40 but this would seem incorrect now. What do you know about these cards?
